Please explain why this model won – what made it stand out from the rest?

The children worked collaboratively during the design phase, both making suggestions and listing the properties their crane would need.

During construction each child took a task (base or arm) and worked in tandem and I observed lots of communication and teamwork. Once both sections were completed the children worked together to complete their crane and added the claw mechanism.

The construction met the brief, was stable and functional. During the presentation both children were confident and talked the class through their design, the properties they had come up with, their final construction.
